

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

PENNSYLVANIA BAR ASSOCIATION.

The first annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Bar Association will be held at Bedford Springs, July 10th and 11th. It is expected that it will be an interesting and profitable occasion, and the indications point to a large attendance from all over the State. The association was organized by a convention held at Harrisburg last winter in response to a call signed by over 800 members of the Bar from every county in the State.

The meeting will be opened by an address from the President, Hon. John W. Simonton, of Dauphin. In addition to the regular and routine business, papers will be read as follows :

"The Mission of State Bar Associations," by J. Newton Fiero, Esq., of Albany, N.Y.; "Legal Education," by George Wharton Pepper; "The Local Bar Association: Its Functions and Relations to the State Bar Association," by Alex. Simpson, Jr.

The meetings will close with a banquet on the evening of the 11th, over which Hon. John W. Dalzell is expected to preside. The following toasts will be responded to: "The Commonwealth;" "The Client;" "The Lawyer and his Wife;" "The Bar;" "The Bench;" "The Legislature;" "Ourselves, the Bar Association;" "The American Bar Association."

The new association starts with a roll which includes the leading members of the Bar in almost every county, and which ranks it in point of membership second only to New York. The possibilities of usefulness of such association are large, both subjectively on the members themselves and objectively in the good which may be attained, both in raising the professional standard and guarding and directing what may be denominated as technical legislation. The measure of this usefulness will only be limited by the degree of sustained interest which it is possible to elicit from members of such an exacting profession as ours.